

One day training cum field day program was organized on 30th January 2021 at Ladaur village, Gaighat block, Muzaffarpur under the ICAR-IWMI collaborative Index-Based Flood Insurance (IBFI) project. The main motive of the training program was to aware and sensitize the farmers of the recurrent flood-affected areas in Bihar. The following topics like crop management in rabi season in the flooded ecosystem, floodwater management strategies and soil moisture conservation in post-flood condition, livelihood improvement strategies in flood-affected ecosystems, and fisheries management practices in aquaculture by the resource persons Dr.AK Singh, (Sr. Scientist) from MGIFRI Motihari, Dr.Akram Ahmed(scientist), Dr. Rohan K Raman(scientist) and Dr. Jaspreet Singh(scientist) from ICAR RCER Patna. During the program, socio-economic information of the farmers and the ecological situation of the village and its surrounding areas were also noted and advised them the best management practices on agriculture, livestock, and fisheries during the flood conditions for the upliftment of their livelihood.

Fig.: Field day with farmers at Ladaur, Gaighat block, Muzaffarpur

Fig.: Farmers training at Ladaur, Gaighat block, Muzaffarpur